

Why Long-Term Care Facilities Should Participate in Residents' Rights Month in October

1. Educate staff on residents' rights (annual requirement).
2. Build relationships with residents, families, and staff.
3. Promote community involvement in long-term care.
4. Increase community awareness of residents' rights.
5. Highlight the facility's dedication to promoting residents' rights and person-centered care.

Residents' Rights Month will be celebrated in October. Mark your calendars and plan to celebrate! Information and materials for Residents' Rights Month celebrations will be available on the Consumer Voice website at www.theconsumervoice.org Direct questions to: info@theconsumervoice.org.
